

Hope for the Future

Marillion

I've been feeling kind of down and loose
Like a Rosicrucian Pope
Head down in the womb of time
Carrying a message of hopeMy hands steady as a hangman's hands
Surer than the hangman's rope
I could sleep for invisible years
Carrying a message of hope
For the future, for the futureI've been feeling kind of down and loose
Like a Rosicrucian Pope
Head down deep in the womb of time
Carrying a message of hopeMy hands steady as a hangman's hands
Surer than the hangman's rope
I could sleep for invisible years
Carrying a message of hopeCarrying a message
Carrying a message
Carrying a message
Message of hope
Message of hopeI found a power on a dusty shelf
Hey, the languages I learned
Now I'm so powerful I hurt myself
I hurt myself, I hurt myselfI feel kind of limbic brain
Like the library of an astronaut
Found hidden in a pyramid
Shadowing a body of thoughtCarrying a message
Carrying a message
Carrying a message
Message of hopeCarrying, carrying a message
Carrying, carrying a message
Carrying, carrying a message
Message of hope
Message of hope
Carrying a message
Carrying, carrying a message
Message of hope
Message of hopeCarrying, carrying a message
Carrying, carrying a message
Carrying, carrying a message
Message of hope
Message of hope

Message of hope
