Divided

Silent Civilian

Check your weapons at the door
You don't live here anymore but a heart can not repent if it doesn't know it's bent it's like it's beating itself to deathThere you are, still as stone stretching skin on the bone Well they say I've lost my will but I'm just standing still In a world that swallows cowards for the crime of killing timeI'm checking out the scenery from as high as I can be Come, let faith be your garden always changing, always still... still breathingAnd there you are in my mind Will from living underground Divided and divided until noone can be found nothing left to break downI'm checking out the scenery
from as high as I can be
always changing, always still... still breathingI'm checking out the scenery
from as high as I can be
always changing, always still...
still breathing
Come, let faith be your garden
always changing, always still... still breathingCheck your weapons at the door
You don't live here anymore
Well they say I've lost my will
but I'm just standing still In a world that swallows cowards for the crime of killing timestill breathing... still breathing...
