

Stranger

Rarity

It's me alone, staring at the bathroom ceiling yet again
Another night feeling forced into the life I live
And I think it's time to quit
Look past the glass and see a clear image
Keep living my life like a stranger to society
When I know in the end people love me
But I'm faded, so faded and concerned
(For the smoke that engulfs my lungs) My mind's at ease for the moment I'm at peace
But those slivers of sand are falling so slowly
Show me a reason to live (Show me a reason to live)
Show me a reason to give up this feeling
But I'm just not strong enough, cause
Over and over this shit fucking kills me
(Over and over this shit fucking kills me.) Keep living my life like a stranger to society
When I know in the end people love me
But I'm faded, so faded and concerned
(For the smoke that engulfs my lungs) You know I don't want to feel like this forever
So please help me out
Or I'll just cave
Keep living my life like a stranger to society
When I know in the end people love me
But I'm faded, so faded and concerned
(For the smoke that engulfs my lungs)
Keep living my life like a stranger to society
When I know in the end people love me
But I'm faded, so faded and concerned
(For the smoke that engulfs my lungs)
Keep living my life like a danger to my sanity
When I know that my life is just a memory
But I'm faded, so faded and concerned
