Diving In The Deep End

Natalie Imbruglia

Why should it be someone like me
Could make the same mistakes again?
Haven't I learned, people get hurt
When they go diving in the deep end?In the deep end
In the deep end
In the deep endThought I was smart, controlling the art
Of turning of my intuition
Haven't I seen since I was fourteen
That life is all just repetition?You lose or you win, you sink or you swim
When you go diving in the deep endIn the deep end
In the deep end
In the deep endNow it's time to realize, you don't have to agonize
You don't have to compromise
But the one thing you must do is open your eyes
Your eyes, your eyesWhy should it be someone like me
Could make the same mistakes again?
Haven't I learned, people get hurt
When they go diving, diving, diving, diving, diving
