

Waiting

Cris Williamson

I have been waiting for this very one
And now I stand before you and my hair is all undone
And you know, even if I were a liar
You could not stop the fire in which we have begun

Moving, changing, breathing, hearing nothing but the wind and morning flowers opening lalalala lalalalala....

We kiss, and kissing, fall to love, and loving rise to dawn, and morning skies
I can feel a fire dying with the rising of the sun in your eyes

And when the sun has spun its way across the sky
And the turning of the earth will not be noticed in the night
You will come and fill me up with fire
And when its once again begun
We'll wait once more with darkened eyes for the rising of the sun

---

Lyrics submitted by Debbie j.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnlyrics.com/>