

Chin Up Boy

Big D And The Kids Table

Well it's alright
Well it's okay
There's someone out there Waiting for you, just waiting to meet you The boy was never the crazy one, you know the one to talk first, so it must have been a moment of just pure inspiration, He said, "Yeah you know the girl, the one with those long crazy curls? Well I'm gonna ask her out man, that's right, I'm gonna take her around the world"
Maybe it was his soft voice Maybe it was just his lean Maybe it was the way his lip curled when she'd really made him think Maybe it was just those brown eyes Guess we'll never really know, But she said
"Sure that sounds nice, what time would you like to go?"
They walked about the gardens, you know, the pond, near the swan boats, He picked a blue flower and he told her a couple jokes, But when it came time for dancing, the hall's price was just too big, He stuttered, kicked some dirt, he had to think of something quick So he just twirled her outside the window, With a delicate embrace, And just about everyone inside watched them dance, with moonlight on their face
Time
It takes time
Time
To find the one you love Both had curfews, both were missed, He told her a little secret, Which earned him a little kiss, it was strange in a familiar way, familiar in a strange way, When the sun finally came up, they were just laying, counting the waves Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by <https://damnllyrics.com/>