

Me vs. The World

Madina Lake

Sometimes I try not to hate myself for everything i never said when you were here and so im burning up photographs of what was a perfect past cause im still here but im barely holding on where did i go wrong
choking on difference
between me and the world
and ever since youve been gone ive been torn apart
i know that you cant hear me but im still hurt and i wish you were here its so hard that i try to bury it pretend you didnt exist so i can be strong
but i feel sick
and i feel diseased cause everyone abandons me and i cant move along cause im barely holding on
where did i go wrong
choking on the difference
between me and the world
and ever since youve been gone
ive been torn apart
i know that you cant hear me but im still hurt
and i wish you were here
i can not pretend you dont exist misery is just a state of mind hiding from the worlds no way to live so ill convince myself that ill be fine ill be fine but ever since i lost you im barely holding on
where did i go wrong
choking on the difference

between me and the world
and ever since youve been gone
ive been torn apart
i know you cant hear me
but im still hurt
so i look up to the stars and wonder out loud why everything i had in life has fallen from my arms can you even hear this song? im screaming at the clouds screaming at a galaxy that never cared at all that i need you here...

---

Lyrics submitted by jessica.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnlyrics.com/>