Kids

Emily Kinney

I'm a little bit drunk
You're a little bit stoned
I'm a little bit restless
We're both alone tonight, tonight
A blue buzz in the dark, a message in my ear

I'm pulling at my jeans waiting for you
To get here, tonight, tonight
Forget the day you've had, forget the loves you've lived
Oh you and I are experts at pretending to be kids

Wash off all your grass stains, ill pull off my shoes
Lets love like we're kids all shiny and new
Babies have wrinkles and scars and tear stains
They're not afraid to cry when they're in pain
Babies and us could be the same

So, tell me all your troubles
Just clear your head
And lets play hide and seek inside my bed

Forget the day you've had, forget the loves you've lived
Oh you and I are famous for a pretending to be kids
Wash off all your grass stains, ill pull off my shoes
Lets love like we're kids, all shiny and new

Shoots and ladders, game of chess
Connect the dots upon my neck
Climb the stairs and take a chances

Pretend we're at some high school dance
The night will last and last and last
And kiss me me like you're not sure leave my answers
Baby I've never done this before

Forget the day you've had, forget the loves you've lived
Oh you and I are famous for a pretending to be kids
Wash off all your grass stains, ill pull off my shoes
Let's love like we're kids, all shiny and new
