

What Counts

Have Heart

have you ever felt like you've lost your mind? when one good friend is so hard to find when the walls, the ceiling, the windows and the floor nothing screams to you as loud as the door 'cus out, is the only way to go all those lonely nights man, i've been there too can i stand it? when i'm lost and the future is just a fucking blur can i stand it? when i'm hurt and the days just get darker and darker i'll stand it. through the rough if it means my mind will gain some strength i'll stand it. like a statue who's face is looking towards tomorrow but sometimes it feels like it's just too much the clashing in my head, it's just too much the constant falling down, it's just too much but we've been dwelling in these graves, far too long> take a breath, reawake, call forth the dread in your way subdue, prevail, triumph over every fucking day to persevere through is what counts is that we struggle to find the strength in our hearts to make the days WHAT COUNTS! WHAT COUNTS! this is the hardest breath, that we can fucking breathe
WHAT COUNTS! WHAT COUNTS! is that we struggle to find the peace that exists within our hearts

Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>