

Let Love Be the Lesson

Toby Lightman

There's a hole in my heart, a beat that won't start.
And it ain't for another I yearn.
I've pitched high and low, for a heart I'll never know,
Let love be the lesson I've learned.

Whether we go strong, yeah we all got a song,
There's always a fire that burns.
Oh how I pray every night and every day,
Let love be the lesson I've learned.

It may through down, toss and turn you round
But I'd still take it any old time.
You can try to run first then fight the war,
You thought that you'd never fight.

Love likes to play, likes to go some way
Waltz high on a wire like a bird.
Fly deep in the blue, remind me of you
Let love be the lesson I've learned.

It may through down, toss and turn you round
But I'd still take it any old time.
You can try to run first then fight the war,
You thought that you'd never fight.

Raise my hands to the sky, oh why oh why?
Cause love has to comfort and yearn.
At the end of the day A wise man will say,
Let love be the lesson I've learned
At the end of the day A wise man will say,
Let love be the lesson I've learned

Lyrics Submitted by Jacquie

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnllyrics.com/>