Temporary Life

Bob Guiney

I drove a hundred miles just to see you
But you're still a hundred miles away
I fought the fire of your wandering eye
I thought it might just keep you here another day7 weeks since New York City
Feels like 7 weeks far too long
I want to give time back to you
Cause the feeling is so far from goneYou couldn't pacify
The feelings that made you wanna run away
Bar time is 10: 30
Our time is temporary
Cause your eye is wandering
Our love has a temporary lifeIt's still been 49 days since I've seen you
You think you're the one that's been mislead
Still want to give time back to you
But I can never be that man again
I drove a hundred miles just to see you
But you're still a hundred miles away
I fought the fire of your wandering eye
I thought it might just keep you here another day
