Family Affair

Abra Moore

I sleep all day
What makes me feel this way
When everything's a bust
When everything keeps losing my trustWhere do we begin with this unhappy ending?
Where do we begin after all that we've done?
And how do we begin to say, I forgive you?
And how do we begin to repair this family affair?I think about the never ending way
That my day never seems to want to end
I think about the loneliness
Of losing a friendDon't take it away from me
Don't take away the one love that matters
And I'll get well you'll see
You're all I have, you're my familyIs there ever enough love, ever enough?
Where do we begin pickin' up the pieces?
Where do we begin after all that's been said?
And how do we begin to say I still love you?
And how do we begin to repair this family affair?Don't take it away from me
Don't take away the one love that matters
And we'll all get well, you'll see
'Cause we're all we have, we're family, familyWhere do we begin?
Where do we begin?
Where do we begin?
