

Summer '68

Pink Floyd

Would you like to say
Something before you leave
Perhaps you'd care to state
Exactly how you feel
We say goodbye
Before we've said hello
I hardly even like you
I shouldn't care at all
We met just six hours ago
The music was too loud
From your bed I gained a day
And lost a bloody year
And I would like to know How do you feel
How do you feel Not a single word was said
The night still hid our fears
Occasionally you showed a smile
But what was the need
I felt the cold far too soon
And the road of 9 to 5
My friends are lying in the sun
I wish that I was there
Tomorrow brings another town
Another girl like you
Have you time before you leave
To greet another man
Just you let me know How do you feel
How do you feel
