

Trivet

Park

In sight of close calls, bring that plaster off the wall

Claustrophobic area, waking up to nothing

Remember one name, catch the corner of the page

Close the book and never look back againCrawl out from the walls, break your fall

Redesign your shadows

Underneath it all we stay calm and overprotective

Last night I was up again till three watching TVAnd using both hands, draw a breath as best you can

Catch the ring before it slips out of reach

Remember anything, red wine split to shards

Cut the corners off the project, let me sleepCrawl out from the walls, break your fall

Redesign your shadows

Underneath it all we stay calm and overprotective

Last night I was up again till three watching TV
