

This One's for You

Luke Combs

There's a couple people that I owe a beer or two
And three or four I owe more than a few
For all the times I couldn't find the answers
Stumbling through the dark without a clue
This one's for you Mom and daddy always did their best
For a crazy fool who couldn't help himself
I thank God they were there to see me through
This one's for you I told you all I'd write you a song
Pour my heart in the melody
To keep you singing along
This might not be the right time
These might not be the right lines to prove
For saying what I'm trying to
But this one's for you I've been knocked down time and time again
Got picked back up by love and few good friends
Who reminded me of all I stood to lose
This one's for you Yeah I told you all I'd write you a song
Pour my heart in the melody
To keep you singing along
This might not be the right time
These might not be the right lines to prove
For saying what I'm trying to
This one's for you Made more than my fair share of the same mistakes
Bridges burned and lessons learned
A few things that I can't change
Some apologies are way past overdue
So this one's for you Oh, I told you all I'd write you a song
Pour my heart in the melody
To keep you singing along
This might not be the right time
And these might not be the right lines to prove
For saying what I'm trying to
This one's for you There's a couple people that I owe a beer or two
And three or four I owe than a few

Songwriters

LUKE COMBS, RAYMOND MORGAN FULCHER, PAT COOPER Published by

Lyrics © Warner/Chappell Music, Inc. Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnyrics.com/>