

Frozen tears

Aabsinthe

Follow then rain into the end of paradise where the eternal dark's crying so near cold wind plays with my minds when the fog appears and lovely words will change to screamsWhen I sleep I mount and fall untrue flowers sprout and dieFeelings stained with blood They don't endure this cill engrained in deepest grief silent, sad farewellThe daybreak drowns in my tears a last spark mirrors on blackened seas feeble waves whisper through the night in the calm I saw angel die...I cry - left alone my grave - I can't evade now I watch the stars and silence crawls to me my frozen tears will fuse and leave my helpless eyes implied I wait and stare a view into my pastI cry - left alone
 my grave - I can't evade sniff a glacial breath of fear weariness befalls your eyes sadness thrives on tonely thoughts they never fade away to dust raven moves his wings it flies into eternal sleep thorns will bar the path to wakepain is beaunting me, obfuscating me I will find the dawn - redemption from my grief fear is blazing up and penetrating me darksome thoughts now close my eyes mischief is bright - shadows on my doom can't prevent my death.
