Jokes On You

Willa Ford

Once there was love and I was a fool
Once there was us but it was all about you
I was too blind to see it
Then I woke up and I came down
It was only a dream 'cause you're not around
Oh, you're not around, not around
You had me feeling, I was crazy
Oh without a doubt, babyEvery time you sold me one of your lies
And every time you could not look in my eyes
You told me what I knew, oh baby
'Cause every time you thought, I would be true
And every time you played around, I did too
Baby, now I guess the jokes on youOnce there was trust, now there's no more
Enough is enough, I am walking out the door
Don't try to stop me, baby
It could have been good, it could have been right
It could have been me always by your side
Oh, right by your side, right by your side
But now you'll never have this again I
I'm feeling sorry for you, baby, yeahEvery time you sold me one of your lies
And every time you could not look in my eyes
You told me what I knew, oh baby
'Cause every time you thought, that I would be true
And every time you played around, I did too
'Cause baby, now I guess the jokes on youLove is all I needed now
You couldn't give enough
No [incomprehensible] no time for you to watch the show, no more you
How's it feel knowing
I did you wrongEvery time you sold me one of your lies
And every time you could not look in my eyes
You told me what I knew, oh baby
'Cause every time you thought, I would be true
And every time you played around, I did too
Baby, now I guess the jokes on you
