

What Are You Thinking?

sElf

Rang her phone and then picked her up
Watch T.V. 'cause she's the late queen
Post traumatic shock set in Telling her to cancel the eveningLike an American car we're proud to be driving
We put all the miles in Ending up where we are
In the middle of silence, beckoning violenceI believed that I could never use you up
Do you agree?
Of all the things that I find so unusual
What are you thinking?And so I slapped the face of love
Clenched fists always seemed to say the right things
First let me up then take me home
So much for talking and compromisingAnd when you humor me that every thing's roses
I know where the truth is
And while your flaunting your planetary halo
I'm watching your nose growI believed that I could never use you up
Do you agree?
Of all the things that I find so unusual
What are you thinking?Where are you going with that head?
Full of anguish and suspense?
Lately I've come to find the silence stifling
Won't you stop this crazy tale
Of one man struggling to prevail
Over the evils of the worldWait, I'm not down just yet
I've got mountains of regret
And my sorrow fills an oceanWait, I'm not down just yet
I've got mountains of regret
And my sorrow fills an ocean
