

Ask for More

David Wilcox

Something is wrong
But nothing you can put your finger on
In so many ways it's going fine
You couldn't complain, you say
And day to day you get along
But lately you lie awake at night What are you missing? Even though
You're not alone, you wake up lonely
You felt this way before, you know it's true
It's calling you to ask for more Like a message in a bottle, 'cross the ocean
Just to wash up on your shore
From deep in your heart, please, ask for more A beautiful dream you had reminds you of the emptiness
Something your soul is trying to say
Usually you can close your eyes and not remember this
But it's echoing back from miles away Only a whisper, showing you something you already know
What are you missing? Even though
You're not alone, you wake up lonely
You've had this dream before
Signs are true, calling you to ask for more Like the fragrance of the garden
That can reach you through the cracks around your door
God speaks in your heart, please, ask for

Songwriters

DAVID WILCOX, MAIA SHARP Published by

Lyrics © SOROKA MUSIC LTD., MAJOR BOB MUSIC, INC. Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>