

The One That Really Matters (feat. Kari Jobe)

Michael W. Smith

I feel You so close to me
I can hardly move or breathe
I can feel Your presence all around
I fall knees down to the ground You're the one that really matters
You're the one that really matters
You're the one that really matters
You're the one that really matters I know that I have been found
The cares of life can't hold me down
'Cause You're the one I want to please
What matters now is what You think You're the one that really matters
You're the one that really matters
You're the one that really matters
You're the one that really matters I know that I have been found
The cares of life can't hold me down
'Cause You're the one I want to please
What matters now is what You think You're the one that really matters
You're the one that really matters
You're the one that really matters
You're the one that really matters You're the one that really matters
You're the one that really matters
You're the one that really matters
You're the one that really matters 'Cause no one is like you
No one like you
No one yeh yeh
Send your glory, send your presence
No one like you, no one And I can't help but scream about the way that You moved in Chaotic love has messed me up so I could live again And I can't help but scream about the way that You moved in
Chaotic love has messed me up so I could live again You're the one that really matters
You're the one that really matters
You're the one that really matters
You're the one that really matters You're the one that really matters
You're the one that really matters (yeah)
You're the one that really matters (really matters)
You're the one that really matters (You're the one that really matters)
