Red Dress (feat. Joe Nichols)

Lucy Hale

If I close my eyes and imagine you are here
It'll last for awhile before you disappear
So I close my eyes, cause the only thing I fear
Is waking up one day, forgetting you were ever hereDarling, it's you I remember with your red dress on
Dancing in the moonlight till the break of dawn
It's you I remember dancing with your red dress onAnd baby it's you I remember when I hear that song
Singing out the chorus till your voice was gone
It's you I remember every time I hear that songNot a day goes by, without thinking that I see
Your face in the crowd, turning away from me
So the days go by, like a recurring dream
Where every night ends with the same old memoryAnd baby it's you I remember when I hear that song
Singing out the chorus till your voice was gone
It's you I remember every time I hear that songDarling, it's you I remember with your red dress on
Dancing in the moonlight till the break of dawn
It's you I remember dancing with your red dress on Dancing with your red dress onI don't know the game we're playing
You and I were on to something
How do we fall apart, without asking ourselves why?Looking back I can't help thinking
That somewhere I had just stopped running
I would have held you close, and never said goodbyeDarling, it's you I remember with your red dress on
Dancing in the moonlight till the break of dawn
It's you I remember dancing with your red dress onAnd baby it's you I remember when I hear that song
Singing out the chorus till your voice was gone
It's you I remember every time I hear that songDarling, it's you I remember with your red dress on
Dancing in the moonlight till the break of dawn
It's you I remember dancing with your red dress onAnd baby it's you I remember when I hear that song
Singing out the chorus till your voice was gone
It's you I remember every time I hear that songDancing with your red dress on Woah
Dancing with your red dress on
