You know I thought I caught you hiding from the shade
Sterilized by just how quickly life can rearrange
I'm all over the place, if time exists it's by that phase
You're breaking me down with your delicate ways, I've had my taste

We've made this place with what we know
And I hate my home
We're tearing it down and learning to grow
I'll create my own

Another season's got us staring at the clouds
And everybody's just too comfortable to even make a sound
Who are we to deserve the benefits of Mother Earth?
She gave us life and we're living in dirt, for what we're worth

We've made this place with what we know
And I hate my home
We're tearing it down and learning to grow
I'll create my own
