

Stone Cold Sober

Paloma Faith

I'll be the late night lady you won't recognize
I'm a chameleon, I'm always in disguise
I'd read your future but it's written in the past
Take a good look, might be your last
Don't try to show me
'Cause you don't know me
Stay away I can be wilder than the wind, 119 miles an hour
I'm in a whole other dimension, dancing doubles on the floor
You think I'm crazy, a little bit hazy
But I'm stone, cold, sober
You're telling me something but there's nothing cheap as words
I'm walking away before I do affect the birds
Excuse me Mister I've got other things to do
Than to stand here listening to you
Stop talking at my face
Take a rocket out to space
Stay away I can be wilder than the wind, 119 miles an hour
I'm in a whole other dimension, dancing doubles on the floor
You think I'm crazy, a little bit hazy
But I'm stone, cold
I can be wilder than the wind, 119 miles an hour
I'm in a whole other dimension, dancing doubles on the floor
You think I'm crazy, a little bit hazy
But I'm stone, cold, sober
In the madness of the storm
I'm the one to carry on
I don't need no medicine
(Oh, oh)
If you're looking for a cure
Don't be knocking at my door
I'll never let you in
Take a rocket out to space
And stay out of my place
I can be wilder than the wind, 119 miles an hour
I'm in a whole other dimension, dancing doubles on the floor
You think I'm crazy, a little bit hazy
But I'm stone, cold, sober
