

Into The Pit

Halford

Deep in the pit and lying alone
Where death has reared itself a throne
We're all the good, the bad, the worst and the best
And where they land is their eternal rest
Foul plays of passion at twilight's dim
In joy of woe, of good and sin
Winds of storm and fates overcast
Darkly my presence is now your past
Join the insanity or die as you fall
Into the pit
The mass production and the killing of all
Into the pit
The future screams for help are fading away
Into the pit
The world tomorrow, will it die for today?
Into the pit
So in the sad, silent watches of night
The lonely pathway envisions my sight
Echoes of laughter and boundless cries
So here I wander under infinite skies
Join the insanity or die as you fall
Into the pit
The mass production and the killing of all
Into the pit
The future screams for help are fading away
Into the pit
The world tomorrow, will it die for today?
Into the pit
