Winter Song

Crash Test Dummies

I can't say that I miss my old dog much
And I've never looked back since I left home long ago
But I hoped a trip into the country
Would help remind me all the things I used to knowThat's what I came for
That's what I hoped forThere once was good blood in the breeze here
We rode across the lake each new year
What have I remembered
What did this used to beThe ice, it used to shine upon our river
It was a mirror that the cold dark water ran way deep beneath
And here were many years of winter drownings
I kept track of these things as they were told to meAnd that's what I looked for
That's what I came for...The changes of the year were once a blessing
Well this year they're the seasons of my discontent
But I cannot rewrite my old diaries
I can only recall all the things that came & wentBut that's what I'd come for
And that's what I'd hoped for...
