

New Season

Amos Saint Jean

Somebody's speaking but I can't hear a sound
It's spinning all around and this noise is so deafening
Opening eyes to find this isn't a dream
And everything on TV is real life, it's all happening
Look in my heart to find the worst that I've seen
Still bears resemblance to me though I try

It's so hard to breathe
When we're swimming in catastrophe
And it's so hard to see

So will You come to me and change my history?
When You speak my name, everything is changing
'Cause every burden I bring feels like it's missing its sting
When I'm with You, it's like a new season of life
It's like a new season of life
It's like a new season of life

Open my soul and then You might see the truth
That I'm still too scared to move 'cause fear is paralyzing me
Still all this reaching is stretching my doubts
I'm growing closer without my pride
And it's so hard to see

Will You come to me and change my history?
When You speak my name, everything is changing
'Cause every burden I bring feels like it's missing its sting
When I'm with You, it's like a new season of life
It's like a new season of life
It's like a new season of life

Come to me and change my history

Come to me and change my history
When You speak my name, everything is changing
'Cause every burden I bring feels like it's missing its sting
When I'm with You, it's like a new season of life
It's like a new season of life
It's like a new season of life
