

Last of the Ice

Bury Tomorrow

If you can hear us calling
We're breaking down the walls that lie between
Then you can see us living
We're living out the words for all to see
So you believe in me Let me be the first to break down
The boundaries of what we've always known
I'm always telling you that you should just be you
Don't let them pull you down
If I could guide you like I was guided
I think we could succeed this time
Raise your hands high, reach for the light
Let us show them how to feel alive
For too long they've walled themselves away
But now the past is moving to the present If you can hear us calling
We're breaking down the walls that lie between
Then you can see us living
We're living out the words for all to see
So you believe in me It's not for a sense of mystery
I'm calling you out as conceited
Raise your hand high, reach for the light
Let us show them how to feel alive Being human is not a burden
Don't let them tell you different
We are equal
Being human is not a burden
Don't let them tell you different
We are equal
If you can hear us calling
We're breaking down the walls that lie between
Then you can see us living
We're living out the words for all to see
So you believe in me Calling
Breaking down the walls that lie between
Then you can see us living
Living out the words for all to see
So you believe in me
