Worlds Apart

The Veronicas

Lying all alone, wishing you would call Writing all my thoughts has broken all my bones You gave it all up, you threw it all away There's nothing I can doWhat do I think of dying? You know it's even worse Than what's in my head You don't believe me when I tell youI don't want to be a fraud And pretend that every thing's fine I won't be here when you get home I'm not gonna sit here and die I'll follow through again this time I'll swallow swords, spit out my pride I'll be just fineYou read me like a book You know I'm running out of legs to stand on I won't believe you when you tell meThese old habits die so hard There's no intervention in sight There's no point in calling you I'm just gonna stand here and fightI'll follow through again this time I'll swallow swords, spit out my pride I'll be just fine, fineYou fill my head with endless lies You're killing me, I'm killing time I'll be just fineSo, maybe one day the pain will go away And I will see your face, I won't even care Changing all the locks 'cause I can't change youI'll follow through again this time I'll swallow swords, spit out my pride I'll be just fine, fineYou fill my head with endless lies You're killing me, I'm killing time I'll be just fine I'll follow through again this time I'll swallow swords, spit out my pride I'll be just fine, fine You fill my head with endless lies You're killing me, I'm killing time

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/

I'll be just fine