Invisible

James LaBrie

Look in the mirror, does it look familiar?
Cannot put my finger, why he kinda looks like me?
Used to like hooking up with you, after waking first thing I'd do
One sided sensation, watching me watching youNow, I'm stuck, how I feel, I don't know if it's real
I'm trying to find someone who's invisible
Now, I'm stuck in the middle, my life is the riddle
Trying to find someone who's invisibleNo way, I cannot lie
I haven't felt right and I don't know why
Drowning, no coming up for air
And part of me just wants to be left thereLiving a constant lie, how much longer, I'd rather die
So bitter, tongue twisted, has me paralyzed
They claim they know me, who I'm supposed to be
A quick fix, sure remedy, another needly plunges deepNow, I'm stuck, how I feel, I don't know if it's real
I'm trying to find someone who's invisible
Now, I'm stuck in the middle, my life is the riddle
Trying to find someone who's invisibleNo way, I cannot lie
I haven't felt right and I don't know why
Drowning, no coming up for air
And part of me wants to be left right thereNo way, I cannot lie
I haven't felt right and I don't care why
Drowning, no coming up for air
And part of me wants to be left right thereNo way, no way, no way, no way out
No way, no way, no way, no way out
