End It All

Chimaira

Another day, another town, another city
It's all the sameAnother day, another town, another city
It's all the same
And I used to find, I used to find comfort in all of this
It's an excuse to deviate from the normPathetic, isn't it?
After all these years, still not content
Happiness has been long lost
Suffering, a drug with no cost
How great it would be to end it allAnother show, another state, another country
It's all the sameAnother state, another show, another country
It has always been the same
Commanding, commanding troops just like a general
Leading the warriors into a battlePathetic, isn't it?
After all these years, still not content
Happiness has been long lost
Suffering, a drug with no cost
How great it would be to end it allWhy bother?
It won't satisfy
Nothing ever does
The pills, the love, the recognition and supportWhy bother?
It won't satisfy
Nothing ever does
The pills, the love, the recognition and supportTo die, rot and decayPathetic, isn't it?
After all these years, still not content
Happiness has been long lost
Suffering, a drug with no cost
How great it would be to end it allHappiness has been long lost
Suffering, a drug with no cost
How great it would be to end it all
