Life Loves A Tragedy

Poison

Of all the words I've spoken
And lies that I've told
Of all the hearts left broken
Begged for, bought, and soldLord, I'm feeling lonely Feel like I can't go on
The streets have all grown cold now
The mysteries all goneShe's all gone
She's all gone, gone, gone
All gone now
She's allWell, I ain't getting any younger
Can't you see it in my eyes
The sweet has turned to sour
I think it's time for me to flyWell, my vices have turned to habits
And my habits have turned to stone
The lies chipped away at my smile now, baby
While the truth ate me down to the boneOne more step, I swear
And I'll go over the edge
I've gotta stop living at a pace that kills
Before I wake up deadGood times, bad times
How life loves a tragedy
Heartbreaks, heartaches
How life loves a tragedyThe nights I spent in danger
With strangers I thought were friends
Only to wake in anger
For some pleasure they swore they'd sendI think it's time I move on like a rolling stone
'Cause I got all the broken dreams I can buy
Time to sell the ones I stoleGood times, bad times
How life loves a tragedy
Heartbreaks, heartaches
How life loves a tragedyWell, I paid the price
For every thrill I got
Those thrills are all long gone now, baby
But I'm still paying for them like it or notI think it's time I move on like a rolling stone
'Cause I got all the broken dreams I can buy
Gotta sell the ones I stoleGood times, bad times
How life loves a tragedy
([Incomprehensible])
Heartbreaks, heartaches
How life loves a tragedy

([Incomprehensible])Good times, bad times
How life loves a tragedy
(Life loves a tragedy)
Heartbreaks, heartaches
How life loves a tragedy
(Yeah, loves)

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/