

Stay

The Tragically Hip

You did the best that you could do.
You were a great crew,
Who tried to nurture and preserve your faith in you.
And with the bureau chiefs and the shrugging spies
You could stay, but why.

You see a light and then another
And everything you fought for naught's uncovered.
You're not a fighter, you're a lover.
You got no business in here, brother
So, stay.
Stay.

Is it the worst that you could do?
You were a great you,
Who tried to nurture and preserve your faith in you
And with the bureau chiefs and the shrugging spies
You could stay and why.
Cause you see a light and then another.
Everything you thought you sought's uncovered.
You're a fighter and a lover
And there's no one up above her
So, stay.
Stay.

All things being balanced, it's balanced and called balancing
Somewhere beyond everything it's being balanced
Not for the sake of balance
But balancing between the throes of learning
And the entire thing
Entirely
Balancing.

Lyrics powered by lyrics.tancode.com

written by BAKER, BONNIE J./JOHNSON, TROY MICHAEL/ELAM, KATRINA RUTH

Lyrics Â© Warner/Chappell Music, Inc., EMI Music Publishing, Universal Music Publishing Group, Peermusic
Publishing

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnyrics.com/>