Silver Morning

Slow Club

I love you or was that just having fun all you neeed is a loyal friend to point out the smoking guns I followed, followed you out through the pines where life seems tangled but but I want you all the timeIt's chewed up all my friends and now it's got its eyes on me everyone around here gets a little strange or weird eventuallyI should have listened to the warnings and everything you had to say in the silver of my morning in the darkness of my day I know I'm asking you to take a leap but thought of failure has been rocking me off to sleep along with the fever running through my bones that never eases up together we could do anything but sometimes I just need a little push Should have listened to the warnings
and everything you had to say
