

Yesterday's Rain

Gary Allan

Sometimes I think about the touch of your skin
Taste of your lips and it all comes rushing back again
And I start to spin I think about you when the skies turn gray
Always reminds me of the love we made
Back when you were here, here come the tears Of yesterdays rain, yesterdays rain
Well, its better to have loved and lost than not at all
But I still love to feel it fall
Yesterdays rain, its just yesterdays rain Well, Ive been told I shouldnt stand in your rain
Thats the only place I see your face
I can see your face It took some time to heal but Ive moved on
I still go back in time and stand in your storms
Familiar warmth always feels like home And yesterdays rain, yesterdays rain
Well, its better to have loved and lost than not at all
But I still love to feel it fall
Yesterdays rain, its just yesterdays rain Let your memory soak me to the bone
Reminds me that Im not alone In yesterdays rain, its just yesterdays rain
Ah, its just yesterdays rain
I think Ill walk in yesterdays rain

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>