Not Sure

Monarch

How can I ever try,
If I'm always awake through the night?Come inside,
Come inside.
You're my comfort,
Where I reside.
And if it feels so wrong,
Why do I know where I belong?So don't fade away,
Here where I am,
And you've built the wall,
Here in my home.
So I wake here and now,
When I walk out,
I look to the ground.Come inside,
Come inside.
And I'll show you,
That I'm still alive.
And if it feels so wrong,
Why do I know where I belong?
And if I sang too loud,
Then I'll never be lost in the crowd.So don't fade away,
Here where I lay,
And you've built the wall,
Here in my home.You can never bring me down,
You can never break me down,
You can never bring me down,
You will never break me down, down, down.
