Smile

Podunk

I want to wake up and live again
Open up my heart and let some love back in
And quit wasting away
By living for things I could never changeI want to wake up and see again
Open up my mind and let somebody in
And quit running away
From all those little things that I could never changeI want to wake up and breathe again
I want to wake up and breathe againI want to smile for a little while Stretch out my arms real wide
And let that kid come back insideI want to wake up and see again
Open up my soul and let some love rush in
And quit turning away
From all those little things that I could never changeI want to wake up and breathe again
I want to wake up and breathe againCan you smile for just a while
And stretch your arms out wideI want to wake up and see again
Open up my soul and let some love rush in
And quit running away
From all those little things that I could never change

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/