On The Run

Natalie Imbruglia

I'm looking for a way To calm these voices in my head With all this mad confusion I don't wanna leave this bed I'm on the run I'm on the run again And I don't know which way is left And there's no point in not being right So I'll hold my breath 'Til the morning, 'til I see the light I'm on the run I'm on the run again From me I'm drowning in these feelings And it's scaring me to death Staring at the ceiling So many things I could have said

I'm on the run I'm on the run again And I don't know which way is left And there's no point in not being right So I'll hold my breath 'Til the morning, 'til I see the light So, so many times So many signs You're out there waiting I should have known you're out there waiting, ooh And I don't know which way is left And there's no point in not being right So I'll hold my breath 'Til the morning, 'til I see the light I'm on the run I'm on the run again From me
