Sinner

Neil Finn

Advisory - the following lyrics contain explicit language:

See it, anyone, got my eyes, got my face
Sing it, everyone, got my nose, got my blood
My conscience plays upon me now
Safe until my luck runs outThe cuckoos call
The pendulum swings
I thought you knew everything
Lift my hands, make the crossSinner, I have never learned
Beginner, I cannot return
Forever I must walk this earth
Like some forgotten soldierBut these things I should keep to myself
But I feel somehow strangely compelled
Under moonlight I stood, wild and naked
I felt no shame, just my spirit awakenedSinner, seen everything, got my eyes, got my face
Fireball drop from the sky
All my dreams have come to pass
Where's my faith, is it lost?
I can't see it till I cast it offSinner, there is no such thing
Beginner, I have learned to sing
Forever I must walk this earth
Like some forgotten soldierToday I am still disconnected
To the face that I saw in the clouds, yeah
And the closest I get to contentment
Is when all of the barriers come downSinner, these things I should keep to myself
But I feel somehow strangely compelled
The closest I get to contentment
Is when all of the barriers come downSinner, sinner, sinner
Got my eyes, got my face
See it, anyone, got my nose, got my blood
Sing it, everyone, got my eyes, got my face
