

Before You

Better Than Ezra

Red lights and caffeine
Shaping up like any day
Same familiar routines
Everybody's on their way
Shuttered and cut off
I thought I was shatter-proof
Lost and marooned Before you
Standing in that open door
Before you
Never had been here
Before you The world was framed in black and white
So, is it any wonder
That now it's in a different light?
A burst of technicolor
Sea change emotion
Suddenly is overdue
Nothing to lose Before you
Standing in that open door
Before you
Never would believe
Before you Ooo Ghostland transmission
In the ether coming through
But I never knew Before you
Standing in that open door
Before you
Never had been here
Before you
Smiling in that open door
Before you
Who would have believed?
Before you

Songwriters

Dixon, Gabriel Barry / Griffin, Kevin Published by Lyrics © Kobalt Music Publishing Ltd.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>