

Spread Your Wings

Robbie Williams

I used to live 'round here
I was the boy with the flash clothes
She was the girl with the acid stare
I saw her at The Place, you know she knows you know How she shakes
When she jacks her body
To the sounds of Orange Juice Jones
And Jocelyn Brown Oh, spread your wings
Before they fall apart
Home is where the heart is, darlin'
Follow your heart So she walks into this dead end bar
Sticks her hand bag on the chair
So she walks into this dead end bar
Puts her hand bag on the chair And she weighs the words we shared
When we were fifteen and still cared
'Cause she feels
I'm a scar from the wound that time can't heal and I said Don't let your dreams out of your head
Stick it to the man instead
Don't fool your heart
Lying about the fears that you had back then Did you try to change your life?
Did you ever try to change your life?
You repeat and repeat and repeat
Now what's up with that? Now she loves somebody else in flash clothes
She was the girl with the acid stare
And now she paid to have
One of those And she weighs the words she says
And she knows you exist
Now she feels
I'm the scar from the wound that time can't heal Oh, spread your wings
Before they fall apart
Home is where the heart is, darlin'
Follow your heart Spread your wings
Before they fall apart
Home is where the heart is, darlin'
Follow your heart, heart, heart

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>