

Everybody Dies Young

Jake Owen

We're all kicking, we're all screaming
We're all sleeping at the wheel
We're all California dreaming
Playing house and paying bills
We're all going through the motions
Just following the script
If we don't stop and smell the ocean
Boys, we might just miss our ship
Every last heart breaks when the summer snapshot fades
Every teenage kiss ends way too soon
It don't matter how long we're here
It's never gonna be long enough
It ain't about the amount of years
It's about the amount of love
It don't matter if you're eighteen, forty-five or ninety-one
We're all waiting for our moment in the sun
Everybody dies young
Oh yeah, everybody dies young
From the moment that we're born
Yeah, we start running out of sand
You can't bargain with the mirror
You can't ever fight the hands off
Time flies by like the 4th of July sky
When the morning sun high fives the moon
It don't matter how long we're here
It's never gonna be long enough
It ain't about the amount of years
It's about the amount of love
It don't matter if you're eighteen, forty-five or ninety-one
While we're here we're all having a little fun
'Cause everybody dies young
Oh yeah, everybody dies young
You only get one life, so you gotta live it
You only get one heart, so you better give it
You only get one life, so you gotta live it up
You only get one heart (one heart)
So you gotta get to giving it up
It don't matter how long we're here
It's never gonna be long enough
It ain't about the amount of years
It's about the amount of love
It don't matter if you're eighteen, forty-five or ninety-one
No matter what we do, we're never done
Everybody dies young
