Oh Come Down (Full Band Version)

Portastatic

Oh come down. please come now to where I've got myself dug in sparkling still, but barely sometimes waiting for you my friendand i may not know you yet and you may not know at all but this is what we need sometimes like now so please come down, don't stallevery night i sing, my face lit up by little blinking lights and time it just flies filling reels of tape with lies and secrets it's getting to the point where i can't take it down under the streets, the rocks and the gratings where the sewer drains is where i'm waiting i know i ask a lot, and lonely is boring but i need one more chance to set this story straight...when the trains are running once more and you have time to make it round if you see a light under the door, feel free to kick it downwell if you see a light under the door, kick it down and if you feel like coming through the floor then dig me out, dig me out i know i painted this room blue but i won't hold my breath for youoh come down please come down to where i got myself dug in
