

Wasting Time

Thirsty Merc

All is fair, I'm trying to make you notice me
But you don't care, you play me like a broken game
Of snakes and ladders or cards or piano or a record
That's been thrown in the trash I like you, I've liked you since
I saw you walking down my street
I like your little vibe and your clothes and feet
And your hair and your eyes
And your nose and your face and your life I know your name and I've got your number
I don't wanna save the world
I just wanna waste some time with you We're both so young, we might as well face it
I don't wanna change nothing
I just wanna waste some time with you Three blind mice, I may as well
Be asking them for stable advice
Instead I'm on a seesaw all day and night
And all week and all month and all year all my life I'm only human, if only you could see
You do some pretty crazy little things to me
And I don't wanna change the course of history
I just want you to be, next to someone like me
And be free 'Cause I know your name and I've got your number
I don't wanna save the world
I just wanna waste some time with you We're both so young, we might as well face it
I don't wanna change nothing
I just wanna waste some time with you Wasting time, wasting time with you
Wasting time, wasting time with you Now you know, my thoughts about
Where I would like the story to go
I feel that if you really like to play it cool
We should do it, do it, do it, yeah I know your name and I've got your number
I don't wanna save the world
I just wanna waste some time with you We're both so young, we might as well face it
I don't wanna change nothing
I just wanna waste some time with you I know your name, I got your number
I don't wanna save the world
I just wanna waste some time with you We're both so young, we might as well face it
I don't wanna change nothing at all
I just wanna waste some time with you

Songwriters

THISTLETHWAYTE Published by

Lyrics © Sony/ATV Music Publishing LLC

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnlyrics.com/>