

Battle For the Sun

The Family Ruin

I feel the fire from my heart growing colder
please tell me there's a way to bring it back to life
Blood, sweat and tears from all these years and not a thing to show
It's a miracle that we're still standing tall, that we're even here at all I don't know if I can keep on pushing on
Is this really what I dream of?
Why did I wait so long for this, to become
This nightmare in my mind, afraid to see the signs
No matter what we've done
We carry on, the battle's never won Wait it's not over yet (it's just begun)
I'm a cynic but I won't pretend this life's not made for me
We've given up too fucking much to let this slip away
We will never back down
It's burning through my veins
It's in my blood; I know that I'll keep pushing on Is this really what I dream of?
Why did I wait so long for this, to become
This nightmare in my mind, afraid to see the signs
No matter what we've done
We carry on, the battle's never won The war has just begun
The best is yet to come
This fire will never leave me
This fire, this fire will never leave me Is this really what I dream of?
Why did I wait so long for this, to become
This nightmare in my mind, afraid to see the signs
No matter what we've done
We carry on, the battle's never won
Is this really what I dream of?
Why did I wait so long for this, to become
This nightmare in my mind, afraid to see the signs
No matter what we've done
We carry on, the battle for the sun

Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>