Little By Little

Dunderhead

Verse
Have you come here for forgiveness, have you come for my support
Did you travel this way to surprise me today, standing at my door
Do you know how much you hurt me, how much you hurt us all
My brother he cried, only four feet high, see the markings on the wallPre-chorus
It was hard times growing up here without you
Now I try to figure out how to get throughChorus:
I am rising up, a little by little, I am moving from the outside to the middle
I am going where I've never gone before, I am rising up, gonna get real high
I am moving up, gonna touch the sky, and I slowly turn my back on the fog of war
And I walk away
Verse
I don't know what you were thinking, leaving us behind
With no money at all, oh we felt so small, but I missed you all the time
We went to sleep when we were hungry, this was back in '95
Mother's cry was our lullaby, when we layed in bed at nightPre-chorus
I have gone from having nothing to have it all
Now I'm trying to get back all the things I've lostChorus:
I am rising up, a little by little, I am moving from the outside to the middle
I am going where I've never gone before, I am rising up, gonna get real high
I am moving up, gonna touch the sky, and I slowly turn my back on the fog of war
And I walk awayInstumental/ Bridge
Chorus:
I am rising up, a little by little, I am moving from the outside to the middle
I am going where I've never gone before, I am rising up, gonna get real high
I am moving up, gonna touch the sky, and I slowly turn my back on the fog of war
And I walk away
