

Stay

True Vibe

How many times have I been here before?
Without a light to lead me out of the tunnel
How many times have I stopped-and took a good look around
Why am I tryin to make it on my own?
Nothing is goin my way
I feel so all alone without a home and nowhere to turn to Feels like im vounded by chains that wont let me go
Why amd I tryin to make it on my own?My skies are so much clearer since You took away the rain
This lonely season ive been in is starting to change
I'm not afraid to stand against whatever comes my way
Since I know that You are here, and You promised to stayThe minute I was thinking that the sun wouldn't shine
Was the minute You changed everything and walked into my lifeMy skies are so much clearer since You took away the rain
This lonely season ive been in is starting to change
I'm not afraid to stand against whatever comes my way
Since I know that You are here, and You promised to stayWho is the man that reflects through the glass?
Is there a remedy inside of me to clear up the image?
Sometimes I feel that ill never see the light of day
Sometimes I feel that it's never gonna endMy skies are so much clearer since You took away the rain
This lonely season ive been in is starting to change
I'm not afraid to stand against whatever comes my way
Since I know that You are here, and You promised to stayBut the minute I was thinking that the sun wouldn't shine
Was the minute You changed everything and walked into my lifeThrough the thick and thin and all thats in between Youre showing me that things are not as bad as they seem Since You came and rescued me I haven't been the same Cause I know that You are here, and You promised to stay

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnlyrics.com/>