Steel

Sam Baker

Sitting on the train to machu picchu
The passenger car explodes
Not enough time to say good-bye
Not enough time to know
What's gone wrong?
God have mercy
I believe my heart has failed
Smoke rises through a hole in the roof
The dead say fare thee well
I swear doctor
Don't you have anything
Like morphine for this pain
I swear Jesus take me now
Cause I am about to go insane
Looking back at the world as one who is leaving
In a dream come right out of hell
Smoke rises through a hole in the roof
The dead say fare thee well
No one is just an observer
The same bell tolls
For the served and the server
For the strong the weak
The weary and the brave
Everybody ride
Come judgment day
Cause trains explode
Steel flies
The sisters ring the catholic bells
Smoke rises through a hole in the roof
The dead say fare thee well
Sitting on the train to machu picchu
The passenger car explodes
