Idol (Boy George and Kinky Roland Gulub Dub)

Amanda Ghost

I can see it, I can feel it rushing in my veins
I don't like it, I don't hide it, see it in my face
But I don't want to wait for I have lost my faithWhy can't I find myself an idol?
Somebody that I can look up to
Be big enough to hold me close in their arms
And never let me downAnd all these stupid conversations
That always seem to lead to nowhere
They're going 'round and 'round, 'round in my head
And they'll be back again, they're coming back againIt's not fair how, I still care now, we're always alone
Honesty and modesty will never find my home
But I will never say when I have lost my wayWhy can't I find myself an idol?
Somebody that I can look up to
Be big enough to hold me close in their arms
And never let me downAnd all these stupid conversations
That always seem to lead to nowhere
They're going 'round and 'round, 'round in my head
And they'll be back again, they're coming back againYou take it, take it, take it, take it, take it
You take it, you take it and throw it away
You take it, you take it and throw it away
Away, away, awayBut I will never say
When I have lost my wayWhy can't I find myself an idol?
Somebody that I can look up to
Be big enough to hold me close in their arms
And never let me downAnd all these stupid conversations
That always seem to lead to nowhere
They're going 'round and 'round, 'round in my head
And they'll be back again, they're coming back againYou take it, you take it and throw it away
You take it, you take it, they're coming back again
You take it, you take it and throw it away, away, awayAnd throw it away
You take it, you take it and throw it away
