

Violent Silence

Beatrice Eli

Saved your life again
But you easily, forget
And your talk buddies
They won't miss you when you're gone
It doesn't mean that much to you
To mean that much to me
You made that clear
But it don't change the way I feel
You leave the deepest scars
Why must it be so hard
To love someone
Love someone like you
Your silence, is violence
It's killing me
You're killing me
Your silence, is violence
It's killing me
You're killing me
And I called you Thursday
Left a note at your mom's house
Can't believe I'm this stupid
I even called your ex-girlfriend
I guess you'll be back again
When your heart has faded
When your heart has faded
I'll be here waiting
Your silence, is violence
It's killing me
You're killing me
Your silence, is violence
It's killing me
You're killing me
It doesn't mean that much to you
To mean that much to me
You made that clear
But it don't change the way I feel
You leave the deepest scars
Why must it be so hard
To love someone
Love someone like you
Your silence, is violence
It's killing me
You're killing me
Your silence, is violence
It's killing me

You're killing meIt's killing me
It's killing me
It's killing me
To love someone like youIt's killing me
It's killing me
It's killing me
To love someone like you
