Gimme Click Gimme Grid

Jason Lytle

I know what avenue there was a shop
Where on my way to school you stayed I stopped
And in the window I would see you seem
Made up of miniature and tiny thingsThe border and the small simplicities
They sure made clear and perfect sense to me
But then I turned and looked to see the world
Where there's no sense and everything's absurdI really wish I wasn't here
And from thhen I knew there should beClick and grid
What's that you absent killed
Click and grid
What's that you absent killed
Gimme click gimme gridI know the avenues of memories
And all my memories mean so much to me
But many years have passed and now I see
It's all the path to small simplicitiesLike beauty and the tiny hidden things
And honesty between the beating wings
But then I turned and looked to see the world
Where there's no sense and everything's absurdI head into the wood and hide
What I say before I die isClick and grid
What's that you absent killed
Click and grid
What's that you absent killed
Gimme click gimme grid
If I say that I did anything
I say that's what I did
Gimme click gimme grid
If I say that I did anything
I say that's what I did
Gimme click gimme grid
If I say that I did anything
I say that's what I did
Gimme click gimme grid
If I claim that I did anything
I claim that's what I did
Gimme click gimme grid
If I say that I did anything
